

Diversity in the media is critical to our democracy. We are ALREADY seeing too much consolidation. I may think I am getting my news from different sources, when in reality those sources are operated by the same corporation. What are the chances that the GE owned stations are going to cover union worker grievances or that the Disney owned stations are going to cover child labor in toy manufacturing overseas? Please don't allow fewer and fewer people to control access to news, it's shortsighted and launches us down a dangerous path.
